"I wish I could tell every sufferer in the world what 'Fruit-a-tives' has done for me," writes Mr. Roy A. Boyer, Trinton, Ont. "For years I was troubled by Bad Headaches, Nervous Dyspepsia and Liver Trouble. Then I commenced taking 'Fruit-a-tives.' Very soon my condition improved, and now, thanks to this wonderful medicine, I am once more entirely well."

RESPONSIBILITY OF
SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Rather a peculiar case was before the court at Chesherville, Ont., the other day, when a farmer sued the school trustees of the Nation Valley School for damages suffered by one of his children when she fell off a swing and broke her leg. The swings were erected last fall on the school ground, and were approved by the school inspector. But a farmer, Mr. Droppo, was strongly opposed to the erection of the swings, and forbade his children ever using them. The school teacher warned all the children never to stand up on the swings, and yet the Droppo children not only used the swings contrary to their father's commands, but also stood up on it, and the girl fell and broke her leg. The father then sued the trustees, and the judge gave judgment for the plaintiff, on the ground that the trustees ought to have had a supervisor to see that their orders were properly carried out.

CLAIM CROP BEING
GRADED TOO CLOSE

Winnipeg, Oct. 20.—"They are grading the crop too close!" This is a complaint of the grain trade just now against the federal inspection department. From that source comes the statement that wheat that passes the three Northern today is superior to two Northern of last year.

Unquestionably the inspection department of the government has tightened up the system. It is said to be one of the results of complaints made to the federal government by the London Corn Exchange and other old country buyers that the reputation of Canadian wheat was suffering in world markets from "over grading." These largest buyers of Canadian grain abroad made their protests stick. Unquestionably the grades in many cases, were covering inferior shipments—and the tendency in that direction was getting worse.

Today the milling and baking quality of Canadian grain is absolutely higher than the government grading certificate calls for, in nearly every instance. In the last analysis, the mixing houses have been held responsible for this gradual impairment of Canadian wheat going overseas. Now

Husband Was Afraid

Pneumonia

Mrs. Charles Edwards, R.R. No. 2, Wheatley, Ont., writes: "Last winter I was bothered with a very bad cold, and my husband was afraid I was getting pneumonia."

"One day one of my neighbors came in and she suggested that I try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

"I took a few doses and I was greatly relieved."

"I also relieved my son, aged nine, of the cough."

"I will never be without a bottle of 'Dr. Wood's' in the house, and I cannot recommend it too highly."

the tendency is in the other direction. Enormous profits were made in the mixing houses. The number increased at the lake head and along the lakes on the other side. Records that could not be disputed showed that many of these mixing houses shipped abroad ten to twenty times as much contract grades as went into their warehouses and little if any of the lower grades. This "skinning" of the grades became a high art. The producer got the price of the low grade and the overseas buyer paid the price of the high grades, the difference being absorbed by the mixing house owners.

The grain industry seemed powerless to stop this practice and the reputation of Canada's grain abroad suffered proportionately. The wolfish extremes to which that branch of the trade went resulted ultimately in the combined protest of the United Kingdom buyers to the Dominion government. Hence the tightening up of the inspection policy this year. One large firm was expelled from the Grain Exchange here on complaint of the London Corn Exchange and was forced to pay back the difference between the actual grade that arrived in the cargo overseas and that which was contracted for. Today it is different and mixing houses are by no means so profitable as in other years.

OUR THRESHING CREW

Threshing along the river, it was the greatest sport; A crew of jolly men they had, Of every size and sort.

From Bolton was the tractor man, He had his own machine; He tended it and oiled it up, As tho' it were his queen.

The separator man was Edgar Thresh, He cleaned and grassed and tended her, He watched o'er all day And fixed, patched and minded her.

The grain hauler was Alfred Dahms, He'd shovel with all his might The golden grain from the harvest field From morning until night.

Dad Bolton was the oldest man That our little crew did boast, And counting loads they'd hauled all day,

He always hauled the most, Bob Beller from Montana, He was the crew's next oldest; He was the quietest of them all, And certainly wasn't boldest.

Next on the list was Ed La Roque, Thresh called him "walkin' boss," But when it came to workin' hard He certainly wasn't last.

And then comes Bernard Walters The cleverest of the bunch; For something new to tease about He generally had the hunch.

Eight on the list was Earl Dahms The latest to arise; But when it came to laughin' hard, He'd certainly take the prize.

And next comes Edmund Walters, Shorter than all the rest; But when it came to teasin' Tom, He was among the best.

Last, but not least, comes Leonard Dahms, The youngest of the bunch; And maybe he couldn't do much work, But he certainly could eat lunch.

Of all the crews along the line, We think this is the happiest; And tho' they talked and laughed a lot, They certainly worked the snap-pest.

Now that threshing is over, They have abandoned their crew, But they'll all join again next fall, I think so, now, don't you?

Municipal Statistics

How Can Municipal Officers Help?

By R. H. COATS
Dominion Statistician, Ottawa

(Alberta Municipal Research Bulletin)

I very gladly accept the invitation of the Research Bulletin to write a few lines in answer to the above question addressed to me by the Editor. To come to the point at once: The statistical field in which statistical authorities like the Dominion Bureau of Statistics would like chiefly to assist the help of municipal officers is that of Public Finance, which is almost day by day becoming of increasing importance. Of the three main parts into which the subject of Public Finance breaks up—Dominion, Provincial and Municipal, the latter is in many ways the most important. People sometimes forget that Montreal's expenditures are larger than those of the Province of Quebec, Toronto's larger than those of Ontario and Winnipeg's larger than those of Manitoba. Again, there are over 4,100 municipal governments in Canada, with well over 20,000 elected administrators—figures which make our Dominion Parliament and Provincial Legislatures look small. Moreover, it is with no mean matters, especially in the aggregate, that municipal governments have to deal. Municipal bond issues during the last few years have run into several hundreds of millions; the outstanding total today is close on a billion. Even in fields that are partly controlled from higher up (as to example education, public benevolence, the administration of justice, etc.), the municipalities bear the brunt of the burden. I said above, that the importance of public finance as a subject for popular study was increasing. To be specific, the increase in municipal expenditures has been nearly three times in the last dozen years alone. We have only between two and three times the population we had at Confederation, but we have between six and seven times as many municipal units.

Before we can have proper statistical measurement of municipal operations in Canada two reforms in the existing situation are demanded: First, we should have uniform accounting as between the municipalities in each province; and secondly, while the types of municipal organization may have to differ somewhat as between province and province, there should be similarity in the principles of accounting as between each, by arrangement between the several provincial governments. Only in this way can a purview of the general municipal situation be obtained and those inter-municipal, inter-provincial comparisons be instituted by which conditions and progress can be scientifically studied. Can one at present compare the figures of receipts, expenditures, assets and liabilities for one municipality with those of another either in the same or in a different province? Not with any degree of confidence, for they may have quite a different content and meaning; by implication they cannot be added into a common total, for a total presupposes homogeneous units. In other words we are pretty much at sea in the whole matter.

Now what is the cure? In a word, as said above, the adoption of a scheme of uniform municipal accounting and reporting throughout Canada. This is too big a subject for discussion here, but I might remark that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics aided by the Union of Canadian Municipalities, some years ago drew up a uniform scheme of municipal reporting for the different types of municipalities which if it could be applied and worked out by inter-provincial agreement would meet requirements, the provincial municipal departments administering the scheme with the Dominion Bureau as a clearing house for the resulting statistics. Clearly such preliminary discussions, as involved in such a plan. Unfortunately, however, something of the kind will ultimately develop. Municipal officers in the meantime might profitably give some consideration to the general problem, remembering that although the best object of municipal accounts is to serve the locality, there is a wider interest attaching to them—one which in the long run may be exceedingly important to their financial and general well-being.

But I should like to make a more direct and immediate appeal for the interest and help of municipal officers in statistics. It is in the following connection: Since 1920, as an interim measure, while the above plan awaits consummation, the Bureau of Statistics has from time to time made an independent collection of returns from certain municipalities on the common schedules to which reference has been made. At first we included only the cities of 10,000 and over throughout Canada, but later the investigation was brought down to municipalities of 1,000 population. The object was to secure for at least a pair of the municipal field a return that would be on a uniform basis and that would accordingly permit of comparisons and coherent totals. It was also desired to try out in a practical way the uniform reporting schedules above mentioned. From both standpoints the experiment was of value. Several reports have been issued and have been widely used. Until the more comprehensive scheme can be installed this probably represents the best that can be done. It involves of course some trouble for municipal officers to make out the forms—and some have refused to do so. Under the circumstances the Bureau of Statistics does not insist on compliance with its requests, so that even this partial scheme falls short of its modest aim. I should like, however, to take the present opportunity of expressing appreciation of the help that has been accorded by the great majority of the municipalities and of pointing out anew to the others that while the work in question is conceived from a national point of view, it is fundamentally in the interests of the municipalities themselves, in that it places their transactions in a form where they may be scientifically analysed and where also they can be compared with the experience of others. We hope, therefore, that when those schedules are again from time to time addressed to the municipalities the officers will do their best to forward a prompt and full response.

R. H. COATS,
Dominion Statistician.

MY GOLFING HOLIDAY

(By Agnes Canham)

Last year I went round the world, so this year my holiday was a problem finally settled by a light purse and I found myself not far away in a comfortable golf hotel by the sea. But fate took a hand in my affairs and after my first round I sprained my ankle, and was carried to bed and ordered to remain there for a few days.

I was distressed at the thought of causing so much trouble and offered to return home by road if possible; but my kindly hostess would not hear of it, and with Yorkshire hospitality declared they would look after me and I should soon be well enough to sit out in the garden and it was a pleasure and all the nice comforting assurances that a kind heart could devise to put me at my ease.

After a rather uneasy night, my foot felt better in the morning; but was useless for practical purposes, so I put up my mind to enjoy my holiday in bed. It would, at least be a new experience.

So I powdered my nose, thanked the gods for the invention of "permanent waves," put on a gay kimono I had bought in Japan, and a jade ring from Shanghai and spread over the bed a gorgeously embroidered shawl secured after great bargaining in Port Said and with the aid of my album and snapshots reviewed memories of my holiday in the Orient.

A year ago I had been in Singapore. I recalled the great groves of cocoanut palms, the pungent all-pervading smell of rubber, the crowds of bronzed natives. I looked at the photograph of a shy rogue of a podger selling "precious stones" on the wharf. They were precious—to him. I thought of a midnight tide to a mosque at Jahore, and the palace of the Sultan.

From there I jumped to Ceylon, pictured again the great native festival at Kandy, the huge elephants, the devil-dancers, the glare of torches, the illuminated Temple of the Tooth by the side of a silent lake. I looked at the pictures of native children in tea and rubber estates, a boy in a cocoa plantation and thrilled to it all again.

My eyes wandered to the shawl on my bed and I smiled over the memory of amusing incidents when buying it in Port Said and other diverting experiences in this sort of town—a conjurer—a guide who led us into rather compromising situations. A fortune-teller who left me with "Goodbye, lady, ta, ta, I'll pray for you."

Sad fragments came back to my mind during this enforced leisure which had lain forgotten.

My mail included letters from Canada and Shanghai. Friends came in to see me with books, roses, carnations and sympathy. Eve offered to take me out in her car as soon as I could get up. I was a complete fraud—an interesting invalid without being ill. At odd moments between games people popped into my room. Two jolly girls installed themselves as nurses and made fun of the whole affair.

"How's the baby?" one said. "Both doing well?" and followed up with personal and impertinent questions only permitted between nurses and patients.

But they rubbed and bandaged my foot, perfumed my handkerchief and pillows (for the doctor's benefit, one explained), and fussed after me, giving me particulars of their trials and triumphs on the golf course.

The doctor arrived, a charming man with the delightful accent only heard in those who wander from the Highlands. My snaps were all over the bed and caught his eye. There is a touch of adventure in every man and only woman and necessity suppress the wanderlust in him, so after Mrs. Henry J. Davis, 81 Princess St., Stratford, Ont., writes: "A few years ago I was troubled very much with my heart and nerves; was all run down and became very thin indeed.

the medical part was over, the doctor sat on the bed and looked at pictures and heard my adventures like a veritable schoolboy.

I was complimented on my patience, forsooth! I was thoroughly enjoying myself. Another day, my views of Canada were seen again, and in the warm, sunny bedroom I reviewed days of skating, skiing and tobogganing and thrilled to the memory of the glories of the Rockies. Recollections of many kindnesses received from the warm-hearted Canadians made me declare, as we all do, at times:

"I must write to—"

The doctor in his dry Scotch way informed me I was not ready for a shipping rope yet, and told me his most cheerful patient was a woman who had lain in bed more than 20 years. Who could complain of a few days in bed after that?

And oh! the meals! I ate. For months, haunted by woman's fear of adiposity I had breakfasted on grape fruit and a dry biscuit. But my landlady had no patience with such nonsense, and sent up trays laden with fruit, ham and eggs, toast, marmalade and home-made bread and butter.

I have dined in palatial hotels in many lands, but never enjoyed a better dinner than the roast lamb and mint sauce, croon peas and new potatoes, fresh from the garden; fruit pie and cranberry cheese and biscuits followed by a cup of delicious coffee.

Who cares for "that slim boyish figure," when faced with a fresh lobster in crisp lettuce for tea with home-made brown bread and butter. Not for a few days I will out, though I lay in vapor baths and dined on pineapple and a lean cutlet when I return.

In a few days I was able to sit in the garden, like Wodehouse's oldest member, and watch other people drive from the first tee.

"I could hobble to a car and be taken to visit our beautiful Yorkshire coast."

I did not reduce my handicap but my golf holiday was a great success and when I first appeared downstairs one lady declared the rest-cure had also been a beauty-cure.

After that, what woman would complain?

WINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Roper and family of Bitter Lake, were visitors at the Handbury's place last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Study's daughter of Edmonton, is visiting here for a few days.

Earl Mackenzie is back on his farm again and has brought a wife with him. George Shrigley has been on the sick list for the past month. Too bad George.

Accidents will happen. Bob McNab cut his car very badly with an axe. Mrs. Willis' little boy broke his arm playing on top of a building. Nelson Handbury cut two fingers to the bone playing with the binder.

J. Ingblom has started work at his tie camp and has a crew of men fixing up the camp.

Several bears have been shot in this district. One big fellow treed a man for several hours, at least the man had that opinion.

Every train brings a bunch of men seeking jobs in the various camps. All the mills will soon be in full swing. The grain harvest is a thing of the past for this year. The lumbermen's harvest is a thing of the present.

The ladies' club, known as the Sunbeams, held a whist drive in the dance hall last Thursday. Mr. Handbury won the prize, a mixing bowl. Harry Dewar got the booby prize, three peanuts. He ate them all.

M. Taylor and A. Ingles will hold their first dance of the season on Oct. 27th.

A basket social will be held in aid of the school on November 3rd.

The Winfield Athletic Club will soon be on the board again. Result—bloody noses.

Maybe you have heard this: Zona Breeze was married to Harry Gale. Weather prediction: Little cyclones around the house.

Had Trouble With Her Kidneys

Back and Head Aches

Mrs. H. Benjaminson, Otto, Man., writes: "Shortly after the birth of my little girl I took very sick and was in bed most of the time. I had backaches, headaches, and was all run down, and I had trouble with my kidneys. I tried all kinds of medicine, but nothing was able to relieve me. As I have slight children, and my husband was away at the time I sent for him to come home, and when he did he brought me five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. After I had finished them I felt so much better I was again able to look after my family and household."

each side of the ditch present nature unadorned.

This year the City Fathers bought 500 trees and planted four trees to a lot, 10½ foot apart, with Great West Poplar and Green Ash alternate.

The trees cost $1.25 apiece planted and all those who petitioned for them are asked to pay half the cost.

This will appear under local improvements on their tax notices this year as a tax of $2.50 on each 50 foot lot served.

My first expense was to have a concrete curb put in. Getting the levels and line from the City Engineer, a local plasterer put in a fifty foot length of 6 inch by 12 inch five to one concrete, at 45c per running foot, making a total cost of $22.50. To lower this cost a town or village should get the forms made ready to use over again, to avoid building them up each time. The side of the street below low, entailed the hauling of several loads of earth for filling up. This, with the work of levelling off, cost in this case $11.25. The cost of the grass seed with express from Patmore's Nurseries, Brandon, Man., where the C.P.R. buys from, cost $2.25.

This piece of boulevarding, 11 feet by 50 feet, has therefore cost in all $36, plus $2.50 for the half share of the trees.

The seed sent was called Lawn Grass Special Mixture, and was composed of No. 1 Kentucky Blue Grass, No. 1 Red Top Grass and White Dutch Clover.

Patmore, of Brandon, says early sowings are preferable to allow the young grass to get well rooted before winter, that the best time for sowing grass seed is during the warm showery weather in May, June or July.
Professor Harcourt, of the University, says August is the best month, he will know local conditions in Alberta better, but says late sowings must be taken care of by mulching through the winter. My sowing was done July 30th. Today, a fortnight after, it is up exactly half an inch.

This valuable space should be utilized for articles of more importance, but I cannot refrain from the jere-mid of using a little more space to vent my feelings on the way of feelings of some of my fellow men. My landscape architect, although he also cuts-stone wood, made a splendid job of finishing off the filling in. He left it like a billiard table top. The mil-

LARGEST AND FINEST OIL TANKERS
SAIL UNDER CANADIAN ENSIGN

ABOVE—The "C. O. Stillman" world's largest Tanker. BELOW—The "Calgarolite" most modern of Tank ships.

With the launching in England on September 14th of the motor tank ship "Calgarolite," Canadian interests which already own and operate the world's largest tank ship, claim also the most modern and efficient of tankers, and a Canadian tanker fleet will further enhance as one of the major oil fleets of the world.

The "Calgarolite" slipped from the ways at Haverton Hill-on-Tees with Miss Eleanor Ross, daughter of Victor Ross, Vice-President of Imperial Oil Limited, acting as sponsor. The "Calgarolite" is a 15,600 ton vessel with an indicated horsepower of 6,500, which makes her one of the most powerful and fastest tankers of her size. She is guaranteed a service speed of 13 knots. She is 540 feet long with a 70-foot beam and moulded depth of 33 feet 9 inches. Her modern equipment will permit loading and unloading of 120,000 barrels of oil in twenty-four hours, and so she will be almost continuously in transit, serving such as an "oil ferry" between Tulara in Peru, Cartagena in Colombia, and Montreal and Halifax. She will establish new figures for economical transport of petro-lum.

Replace Torpedoed Ships
The "Calgarolite" is the last of three large modern sea-going tank-ers and one lake tanker which were laid down some time ago in British shipyards for Imperial Oil.
Preceding her in launching were the "Windolite" for lake service, and the "Victrolite" and "Montrolite".
The flagship of the fleet in which she will serve is the world's largest tanker, the "C. O. Stillman." The three sea-going ships just built in the British yards replace three Imperial vessels which went to the bottom at the hands of the enemy while transporting petroleum for the allied cause. They were the "Luz Blanca," the "Ret-las" and the "Palatine."

Unload in Twenty-four Hours

The motor driven tanker of today is a highly specialized vessel which is designed to move a great volume of petroleum at maximum speed and with minimum delay at loading and unloading ports. A few years ago three days was considered a quick "turnaround" for a tanker. Today, with modern pumping equipment, a tank ship turns around in twenty-four hours. That is to say, twenty-four hours after she arrives in port she has taken on or discharged her cargo and is again at sea. Consequently the modern tanker is moving practically all the time and more than any other type of ship, is the actual home of her crew. To compensate for the more continuous service, the cabin is accommodated in a style that would make the average passenger with envy. Nothing is overlooked to provide complete comfort and the best of quarters and custine that compare favorably with passenger accommodation on many liners.

The Imperial Oil fleet now comprises nine large ocean-going motor tank ships: the "C. O. Stillman" of 22,715 tons, the "Victrolite," "Van-colite," "Calgarolite," "Montrolite," and "Canadallite" of 15,600 tons; the "Ontarolite" and the "Regino-lite" of 12,000 tons, and the "Torolito," formerly a steam turbine vessel, which was converted into a motor ship, with a tonnage of 9,150. The combined motor tank ships carry 3,016,000 barrels of oil which they load and discharge at an average port time of twenty-four hours. It is estimated that these ships carry for about 25 per cent cheaper than steamships of corresponding size.

Large Lake Fleet

In addition to the ocean tankers, Imperial Oil is operating six canal size steam driven ships on the Great Lakes. These more refined products from Halifax to various ports in the Great Lakes and to Fort William, serving the Halifax, Montreal and Sarnia refineries. Most of these vessels tie up during the winter but in the summer it is a rare thing for one of them to have more than eight or ten hours in port. On the Pacific Coast the SS "Imperial" and two other steam vessels transport petroleum products for the company, and there is also the small motor ship, the "Marviolet" with a capacity of about 1,000 barrels. The combined capacity of the entire Imperial fleet is approximately 1,100, 000 barrels, sufficient to fully load more than 5,300 tank cars, making a train 36 miles long.

The modern ocean-going tank ship contrasts laterally with the shallow draft river boats which are used by the Imperial interests on the Magdalena River in Colombia, and which resemble in appearance the old stern wheelers Mark Twain once piloted on the Mississippi.

will require approximately the small amount of one pound. For such a small area it is not worth while bothering about the mixture of Kentucky blue and clover. Better buy a pound of good prepared lawn grass. We have been getting very satisfactory results from a mixture offered by Pike & Co., 1009 Jasper Ave., Edmonton.
This has been used by the 100 lb. sack. Price per lb. is 75c.

I note you are editing the "Research Bulletin" of the Union of Alberta Municipalities and wish you every success, for some work along this line is badly needed.

Yours respectfully,

CEO VARGOURT,

Horticulturist.

Bad Legs

Read This! If You Have Varicose Veins

If you or your relative or friend are worried or suffer because of varicose veins, or burches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that literally hundreds of people all over the country are using with complete satisfaction.

Simply ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins, rubbing gently upward and towards the heart as blood in the veins flows that way.
Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. Emerald Oil is a powerful yet harmless germicide and results are guaranteed by all good druggists.

Much discussion as to why girls leave home. One reason is that they can't afford to wash dishes when the world is clamoring to have them appear in the movies.

SIR HARRY LAUDER in
"HUNTINGTOWER"

Few of us have had the privilege of seeing this great artist in person, but here is our opportunity of seeing him in action on the screen. The story is from John Buchan's famous novel and was filmed near Glasgow, Scotland.

On Saturday night, Mr. Stewart Campbell will impersonate Sir Harry in some of his latest hits.

MONDAY, TUESDAY, 8 P.M. OCTOBER 29 and 30

"THE MICHIGAN KID"

By REX BEACH

Beyond all question the most magnificent out-of-doors picture ever produced upon the screen! A forest fire that pales into insignificance anything that has ever gone before—a ride for life in a frail canoe through the mad whirl of the treacherous mountain rapids, are only two of the thrills in this famous author's masterpiece.

TIM MCCOY in
"BEYOND THE SIERRAS"

Tim McCoy brings back the real romance of the old west in this galloping thriller. He rides like a demon, fights like one, and makes love to the queen's taste in this picture of the days when California was young.

Make This Simple Test for Swift and Sure Relief

To quickly prove 90 per cent of Stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary and that you can eat and enjoy most any food you really want—get from your druggist some Bismarck Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after your next meal. This is a simple, inexpensive test that can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief comes instantly. Bismarck Magnesia is a pleasant, harmless, non-laxative form of old-fashioned Magnesia that, when taken after meals, cleanses, sweetens and neutralizes the dangerous acids that cause most stomach troubles. One day's trial will convince you—ask your druggist for Bismarck Magnesia today.
